

My Little Joy

by Joshua I Kaplan

My Little Joy is a fairy tale, a never-ending story of poetic regale.
Her heart is a sabre, her soul is my shield My Little Joy never yield (na no)

My Little Joy is a rock and roll song.
Fist in the air, she's rebellion reborn Her amps are at eleven, 'pologize for the meme My Little Joy is Roger's scream* (YEEEEAAAAHHHH!)

and when we talk she starts off slow because she just don't know if the force of her will will blow me off the rail

and though she tries to cap it there ain't no hiding the crack in the wall that keeps her back
'cause all she wanna do is love all o'er me (like reign)

My Little Joy is of the Valkyrie Descending from Valhalla just to set me free

Should someone try and stop her, i hope i don't see 'cause let me tell you right now son, it won't be pretty (she fierce!)

My Little Joy is a summer rain saturate, evaporate each drop of pain chasing down my demons one at a time then she turns to me with bloodied hands an' says, "Hey boy, we fine." (that's my baby, taking point)

because she just don't know
if the force of her will will blow me
off the rail

there ain't no hiding the crack in
the wall that keeps her back
'cause all she wanna do is
love all o'er me (like reign)
